

Premium, Excess and Discount Guide

Basic Contents and Personal Valuables

This RAC Basic Contents and Personal Valuables Insurance Premium, Excess and Discount (PED) Guide provides you with information about how we calculate our premiums and the excesses and discounts which may apply to your RAC Basic Contents and Personal Valuables Insurance policy.

You should read this PED Guide with your RAC Basic Contents and Personal Valuables Insurance Product Disclosure Statement and Financial Services Guide.

This PED Guide applies to policies commenced on or after 23 November 2023 or renewed on or after 21 December 2023.

About your premium

The premium is the amount you must pay us for your insurance cover. Your premium is shown on your schedule.

We consider a number of factors when calculating your premium including, but not limited to the following pricing factors:

- » Location of your site.
- » The sum you are insured for.
- » Construction type of your building.
- » Costs associated with operating our business.
- » Government charges.
- » Discounts that may apply to you.

We may use some or all of these factors to derive your premium.

All insurance risks are not the same and so the combination of factors used and relevance they have in the overall premium will differ for each risk.

You will need to specify the sum insured for your contents and personal valuables at the commencement of your cover. Please refer to our online calculators at rac.com.au for guidance on calculating the sum insured.

You need to review your sum insured at the beginning of each subsequent period of insurance or when changes occur. We may also review the sum insured at the beginning of each subsequent period of insurance.

The sum insured is shown on your schedule.

When you renew your insurance, your premium is likely to change, even if your personal circumstances have not. This is because the premium you pay is also affected by the cost of claims we have paid, or expect to pay, to other members and updated data we have available to calculate your premium.

Cancellation charge

If you cancel your policy during the period of insurance, an administration fee of 10% of the unused premium may be applied to your refund.

Credit card charges

We do not charge a merchant fee when you pay your premium or your excess by credit card.

No refund or request for payment will be made if:

Excess

When you make a claim you may be asked to pay an excess prior to the claim being finalised. The amount and types of excess applicable to your policy are shown on your schedule. You may have to pay more than one excess depending on the circumstances of your claim.
